«Residential and construction trends» special

What opportunities do sustainable construction and renovation offer? Find out in the «Handelszeitung» special published on 6 July 2023

Characteristics

In 2023, we will be analysing the state of the national and international real estate markets in a series of specials. How do industry experts rate the current situation? How are climate protection, the Ukraine war, rising interest rates and inflation affecting the real estate market? We provide reports and analyses that give answers, show approaches to solutions and even dare to look into the future of the real estate industry.

In our numerous specials on a range of real estate topics, we shed light on the challenges and opportunities for companies, tenants, homeowners and investors from a wide range of perspectives, and highlight current trends and solutions.

The «Residential and construction trends» special published on 6 July 2023, will focus on the following topics: What opportunities do sustainable construction and renovation offer? What materials do architects and other experts use in construction? How are our cities changing and how does digitalisation support efficient residential and office buildings?

Advertise in this practical special as well as in the newsletter «Handelszeitung Immobilien» – we are happy to advise you!
